The occurrence must have become known shortly after it took place, for the men were seen scamparing across the hills with all possible speed. The police soon got wind of the matter and had the wounded men transferred to Sau-ki-wan police station, where, as stated, one of them of the detective force, with Inspectors Quincey and Perry, are out after the ruffians, but it is very doubtful if they will be able to track them. H. B. M's gunboat Rambler arrived at Ir the Japanese vernacular paper Ji Shimpo is correct, a most important find of coal has been made on one of the Riu Kiu Islands. It is said :- Mr Masuda Ko. of the Mitaui Bussan Kaisha, proposes to work a vein of coal recently discovered on one of the islands of the Yeyama Group (Okinawa), named Nairo, which measures about two and a half miles in circumference The product equals in quality first-class Chikuzen coal, and the present pit is estimated to yield about 400,000 tons. The inhabitants of the neighbouring islands are unfitted for hard labour, and Ma Masuda intends to employ coolies from Nagasaki. The coal is to be transported to Keelung and Foothow by the steamers of the Bussan Kaisha.

According to report, Germany is not only to furnish China with an unlimited supply of money, but she is also to flood Japan with her superfluous sovereigns.

The Hochi Shimbun says :- Every one is well acquainted with the fact that a year

Japanese domestic specie bonds in London but failed. A rumour is now affoat to the effect that the government contemplate raising a new foreign loan of 70,000,000 yen, not however, in London, but in Germany. The issue value of the bonds for the proposed loan is said to be 90 yen for 100 yen face value, and the interest is to be 6 per cent per annum. The preliminary steps are reported to have been alread taken. We hear the money raised is to be devoted to the construction We have been favoured with a copy of the of railways, the repair of harbours, embankments of rivers, and other public works. In reference to the subject some say a counter-proposition has been submitted by members of the government who are of opinion that Germany connot afford to part with so large a sum money at one time, and that a considerable portion of the amount would have to be of momorials, royal decrees, and descriptive supplied by England through Germany; and undertaking was simply owing to the dislike of London capitalists to invest Japanese domestic bonds, and that therefore the success of the proposed loan. which is a purely foreign, loan, in the Lon don market is beyond doubt. Anyhow, loan has been decided upon, and the mission of Mr Kato, superintendent of the Bank bureau, who lately left for Germany, is said to be in connection with it. For our part, we do not youch for the truth of the rumour, but we think that sa the credit of our government is good abroad it will not be very difficult to raise 70,000,000 yen at 4 or 5 per cent, and still less so at 6 per Corea. The following account of the disturbance at Chemulpo of the 25th and 26th January may be of interest :-

Some Chinese merchants at Secul Bent a considerable quantity of the red ginseng root to Chemulpo, at which the root was stored in a house to await a favorable opportunity to amuggle it across to the Chinese coast. The Corean Customs authorities having heard a rumour of this proposed smuggling venture determined, if possible, to frustrate it. The afternoon of of the native chiefs of the Punjab, a pair of and the same afternoon two Chinemen caratones of each half-circle, a large emerald their way they turned back. This ruse, Oustoms officers, only put them more on the alert. Shortly after the Chinese began to he did not know it was an offence to go collect about the Custom Houses, and a tidewaiter named Welsh was brutally established, in fact had some Europeans not been present there is no doubt he would have been are so pure and finely polished that they strangled. The Chinese, who now numbered about forty, crowded into the Uustom House, and there appeared every chance of him guilty; first of taking $5 from a man a one is said to be over half a lake of ru. a serious disturbance, the Europeans being who had engaged hum to take him to a junk greatly in the minority, there being only in the harbour, and then of cutting and from six of them. About this time the Chinese Vice-Consul appeared on the scene, and he asked the Europeans to leave as he feared. they would be mobbed. Owing to his entreaties the Europeans left the Custom House, and the Chinese vented their splean by smashing all the windows. Two arrests were made, and in the evening the ginsons was smuggled on board the Ohinese guaboat that was anchored in the inner harbour.

Next morning, the Chinese Vice Consu issued a proclamation conched in very offensive and abusive terms, and he also paid an official visit to the Customs, but this visit only made things worse. The Chinese were now in a highly excited state and all the shops were closed. In the afternoon the Chinese mob attempted to arrest a petty Corean official. The Vice-Consul thon sent for marines from the Chinese gunboat. On landing the officer in charge wished to fire upon the mob, but was prevented by the Vice-Consul, and no arrests were made. The Commissioner of Customs, seeing the serious turn events were taking, went to the English Consul and asked if an armed party might be landed from H.M.S. Swift, the Anglish gun-vessel present; and late in the afternoon at the request of the Consul a small party of blue jackets and marines, in charge of an officer, were landed and marched to the English Consulate. In the evening about 11 p.m. the ring-leaders of the disturbances were ordered to Scoul by the Chinese Resident. Three of the fienders were dered to be bamboned, this punishment was an trently not carried out.

It was rumoused that Li Hung Chang has ordered the defaulters to be deported. as they were, shortly after their return to Chomulpho, takon on board the Chinese gunboat Tso King and transhipped to the Has Chin for passage to Pekin. There is no doubt the landing of the few Blue-isckets and Marines from the Swift had a salutary offect upon the Chinese, and Captain Bromley is to be commended for the promptitude with which the request of the English Consul was complied with. The Chinese Consul is much to be blamed for his apathy. The English Blue-jackets returned on board their ship on the morning of January 27th, everything being The cold weather here has completely broken, and we have had fine clear dry bracing weather. With the break up of the winter there has been a succession of lunch and dinner parties. The Corean Tao-tai gave a big lunch the other day to the leading officials and merchants of Chemulpho and the Captain of the foreign men-of-war present. The day following the Tao-tai's lunch Diabutsu, the wellknown Japanese ; compradore, gave a house-warming on the occasion of the opening of a new hotel, fitted up in the European style, for his son. March 15th there was a slight disturbance between the Japanese belonging to the Mitsu Bishi Company and the Corean coolies. The Japanese refused to pay the amount of hire demanded by the coolies. who, in consequence, struck work. A row ances have been rather frequent lately, the Japanese Company have decided to anchor a hulk at Chemulpho, as their steamers are often delayed in consequence of these little differences. The said hulk arrived on March 12th in tow of one of the Company's steamers and was moored in the outer anchorage; their steamers can now on arrival at Chomulpho run alongside the hulk, discharge the old and take in the new cargo, thus saving much valuable time. The men-of-war at present are the Chinese cruisers Sun Ching and Yung Wei and the Japanese corvette Congo in the outer anchorage; and the British gun-vessel Swift.

THE CHARGE OF HWINDLING. Li Chun Tong, who was convicted on Friday of uttering a forged hill of exchange

The Chief Justice said the offence of which prisoner had been convicted was a very serious one, and one which the commercial community of Hongkong must be shielded from. Prisoner's statement that he acted in the affair on behalf of his master, he did not believe, for when prisoner was brought up at the Police Court and was told the charge against him, he said he was the owner of the bill and took the police down to the place where he lived and produced the letter accompanying the bill of exchange. He then said he was the master of the Quang Wang shop himself Somebody in Hougkong must have got the letter, got the hop of the firm imitated, and the imitation put upon the stamp. He quite agreed with the jury that prisoner must have known it was done. The sentence would be penal servitude for five

THE CHINESE EXTRADITION CASE Evidence for the defence was continued to-day. The first witness called was John Mathieson, Inspector of Police who said he saw prisoner first on the 22nd January 1886. A report was made at the Contral Station that a man had been solzed, and he went with Inspector Perry to No. 2 Queen Street-a two-storied house. It was a chandler's shop. He saw a Chinese man-of-war's man standing outside the shop. He recognised him by his upiform. He went to the second loft and found prisoner in irons, in a room, and three Chinese man-of-war's men keeping guard outside the room. There were he thought seven men keeping guard in the passage. Defendants had handouffs on his wrists and a chain round his ankles. Witness asked for the keys of his shackles and was told that the officer was in possession of them. At that time several other policemen arrived, and he had the man-of-war's men taken into custody and the prisoner taken in a chair to the Central Police Station. He opening the local of the handousts with a key belonging the police and torkel the chains from his aukles. The peroudant remained at the police station in the witness room Witness thought he was spie there. It was well-known that he was wanted on board the cunboat and it was right to take precautions. Defendant showed he desire to leave. He left on the 23rd after the case against the man-of-war's men was remanded at the Police Court Witness told some one to take him to the charge room, but on his going there he found prisoner had gone. He sent to Chinatown to make enquiry. Defendant afterwards came back to the Police Station as he (witness) wished to see him. He had no charge to make against defendant at that time. Defendant remained walking about the charge-room for about ten days going out and in as he liked. Witness told him it was rather suspicions that the man instructing Mr. Caldwell, who was defending the man-of-war's men, should wish to take him away and he advised defendant that he had better remain at the Police Station as he was quite safe there. The man instructing Mr Caldwell told witness he wished to take the prisoner to Singapore. That man's name was Chan Sun I. He knew him well: he had resided for some time in Victoria jail, having been charged with ordering a young gentleman Canton to sign. his father's name to the ument. After ten days, defendant was nut under arrest, The name of defendant's junk was Kam Shun Fat. He had seen it in Yau-ma-ti. It had about 400 or 500 piculs of carrying his arrival. There is a general feeling of capacity, had two masts, carried no guns, and there were no places apparent where guns might be kept. The vessel looked to be a cargo boat. There was nothing in the

He saw him first on the 1st May 1885 when the junk was in the Colony. The first time the junk ever came to Hongthan on board. The junk was loaded with ground nuts. Witness sold the nuts on behalf of the owners. She left loaded with saltnetre and came back in May with salt. Witness sold the salt : prisoner instructed him in the selling of it, a man named Sam Sing being present as interpreter. He gave a part of the proceeds to the defendant and a part to the quartermaster on the junk. Prisoner returned with the junk, which came back empty in November. The junk sailed again but this time defendant did not accompany it the was sick. The return cargo on this occasion was bark. On the 22nd January, 1886, the junk made another visit to Hougkong. The witness was cross-examined by Mr Ewens at some length but nothing new was brought out.

Mr Wotton said he wished the certifi cate of the discharge of the prisoner in the previous case to be submitted. The only other witness he had to call was Inspector Perry. Inspector Perry was sent for, but as he was not in attendance. Mr Wotton moved for an adjournment of the case till to-morrow. As at present a vised he did not think he would produce any further evidence than that of Inspector Perry.

Mr Ewens said it was his intention to put U Sui Wan in the box to deny the statements inade by the witness yesterday with regard to his threatening him to make him give evidence. He did not think i was of the slightest importance to the case, but he wished the contradiction made.

Mr Wotton said the statement had no connection with the issue involved in the case. If Mr U Sui Wan were charged with interfering with justice it would be a differont matter.

Mr Mackean-I do not think it is at al material to the issue even if Mr U Sui Wan went on beard.

Mr Ewens-It might be a case of trying to got witnesses. Mr Mackean -At any rate I will adjourn the case till to-morrow at 2.30.

THE CHINESE MEN-OF-WAR. —STET. TIN v. NEWOASTLE

Under the heading Germans in the Chinese Navy,' the North German Gazette has published a long statement from the Vulcan Shipbuilding Company at Stattin protesting in the most energetic tone against the allegations that the war vessels which it constructed for the Chinese Government had turned cut to be defective These statements, which seem to have been first advanced by a German newspaper published in the Russian capital, the St. Pc. tersburger Zeitung, were copied litto several German journals of note, and referred to in The Times, which at once caused the Vulcan Company to fall foul of the said Toutonic prints for their unpatrictism, and to accuse the British and Muscovite Press of a jealous desire to discredit German industry in the eyes of its foreign employers. After reading the delinquent German Journals referred to a lecture on the sin of reproducing articles which aimed at discrediting and demeaning the achievements of our company before the whole German nation. the communication of the directors prolocods : - 'It is sad enough that such phonomena should still our otherwise grandly circumstanced Fatherland. But how will it be possible to hold high the German flag in that international rivalry which is growing ever more soute, if we do not inscribe the motto on our shields, ! One for all, and all for one?" So much for the German Press and then the angry. Vulcan turns with Herr Wobeser, who translated Herry M. his sledge-hammer to England," and ex-The one hundredth anniversary of the tain system in all these journalistic efforts. English origin, &c. The communication of the Vulcan Company then proceeds in detail to rebut the charge that the three war vessels which it built for the Chinese Government proved defective; and this it does by quoting the reports of the commanders who took the ships out to China, and who youched for the efficiency and seaworthiness of the ironclade, as put to the test by heavy storms. One of them, the Tai-Yuen, it is true, had to put into Malta and Singapore to get its boiler, whistle, and pumping apparatus by ordering from it two other new iron-But when it wrote thus the Vulcan Company had not before its eyes the following sentence from The Times :- An order for two more swift cruisers had, it is true. been given to the Vulcan Company of Stettin at the same time that a similar order was given to Armstrongs; but it must be remembered that the Chinese gave this before the previous two vessels had arrived out, and before they had an opportunity of knowing their qualities. Again, if Li Fong-Pao's fall has nothing whatever to do with his ordering of the ironolads in question from the Vulcan Company of Stettin, will the Company be good enough to tell the world to what his Excellency owed his disgrace and degradation! The question at issue is not whether the German ironclads really turned out to be unservicable. but whether the Chinese Government thought them to be so, and whether in consequence it did not vent its displessure on the head of its previous representative at Berlin, as well as get rid of Admiral Seblin. London, Februar, 16th, Three hundred and others of his naval countrymen. and fifty-nine Presbyterian con regations There is another point also in connection in Ireland, numbering altogether 328,100 with the protest of the Vulcan Company ing the project of the establishing of Home stress on proving the seaworthiness of vessels as tested by a very trying voyage ont to China; but it makes no allusion to what may be called the fighting, as opposed to the sailing qualities of the warmhip; and in the former respect the charge brought against them is that on their arrival in the Yangtaze it was found that although the material employed was good, the ships were so badly constructed that it was dengerous to fire the heavy guns with a full charge. In the case of one of the ironclads the first trial of her big guns, out in the Baltic off the mouth of the Oder, had the effect of covering her decks with all sorts of debris, and producing other comical results which caused much merriment at the time. But until the Vulorn Company at least can give a satisfactory reply on the points which it has left untouched in its indignant protest as above enumerated it from Paris says the prize fight between had surely better cause to beast of itself as of Exeter. The inquiry into the conduct of Colonel Herbinger was begun on the 10th inst. at the Chateau barracks St. Male. The procoodings were strictly private. General Lainbert presided. The chief evidence in favour of Colonel Herbinger was that given by Lieutenant Harlin, who deposed that the retreat began when General Negrier was wounded, and that the cash-boxes of the division which the colonel is accused of having ordered to be thrown into the river were robbed by coolies and by some of the men of the foreign legion. The sympathies of the officers of St. Malo are in favour of Colonel Herbinger, who is in bad health. Colonel Borgnis-Desbordes is the object of silent hostility. It is evident that General Boulanger would have prevented the inquiry if possible; but the pressure of political parties has, as usual, carried the question. The inquiry terminated on the 11th inst. and resulted in the acquittal of Colonel Herbinger. The opinion of the presiding officers is even eulogistic, and Colonel Herbinger's promotion after the examination of his conduct is certain.
